Letting Young People Lead Their Learning

A Thought Leader Session with Ron Berger

THOUGHT LEADER ROUNDTABLE

Letting Young People Lead Their Learning: A Conversation with Ron Berger

January 22, 2020 2:00 PM EST

Please join us as the Forum's President and CEO Karen Pittman chats with Ron Berger, Chief Academic Officer of EL Education. EL Education was founded on the premise that when students have completed their academic career and enter adult life, they'll be judged not by performance on basic skills tests—but rather, by the quality of their work and the quality of their character. EL Education is transforming the school experience of young people around the nation, at 152 schools in 30 states. This conversation will explore the EL model, the Character Framework, and the 10 founding principles.

Logistics for today's conversation

- Please feel free to submit questions and comments via this webinar application, using the chat feature.
- There are no slides for today's session for background and context. The focus will be on the unscripted conversation.
- Today's session is being recorded and will be made available to you early next week.

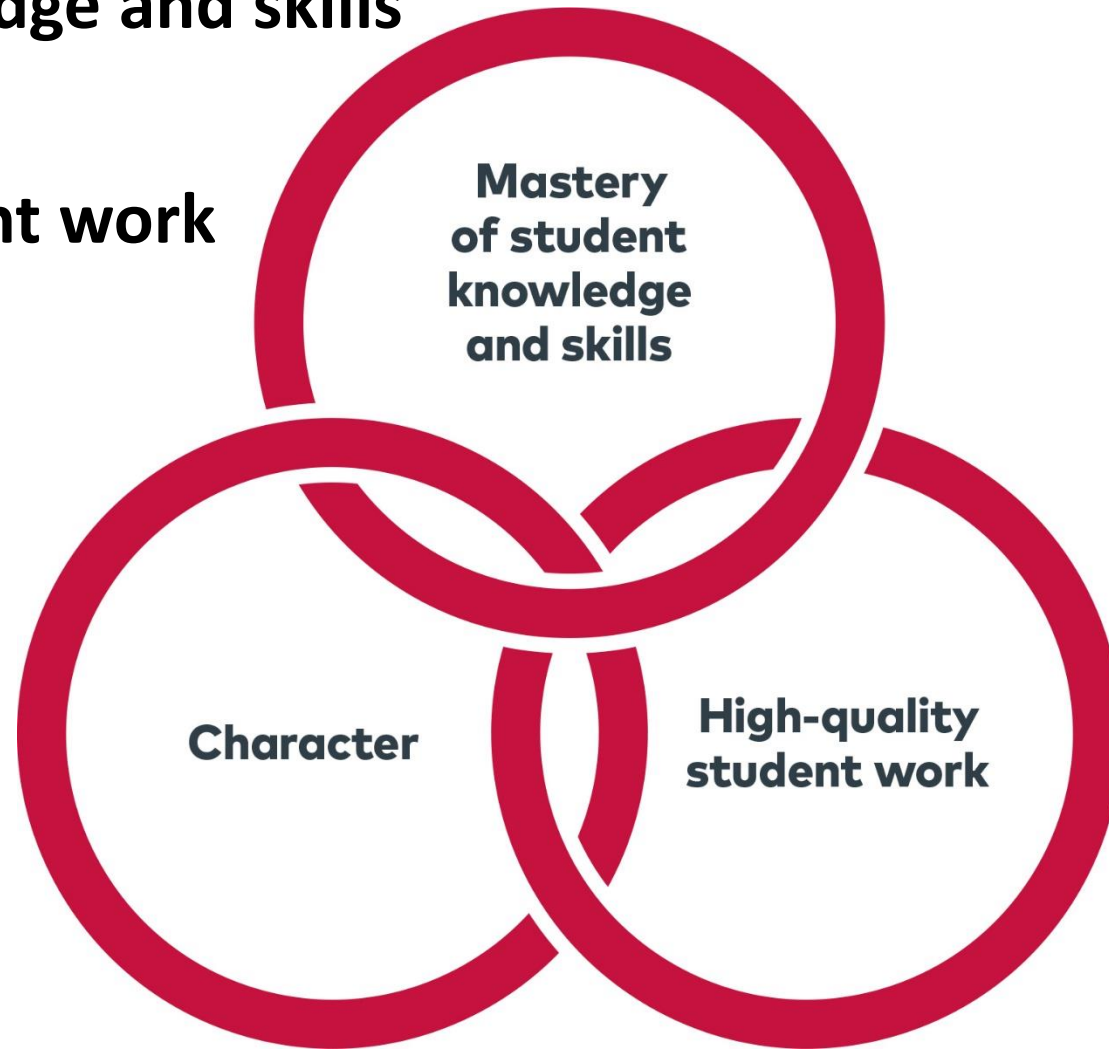

When a student completes her schooling and enters adult life, for the rest of her life she will be judged not by test scores, but rather by two things:

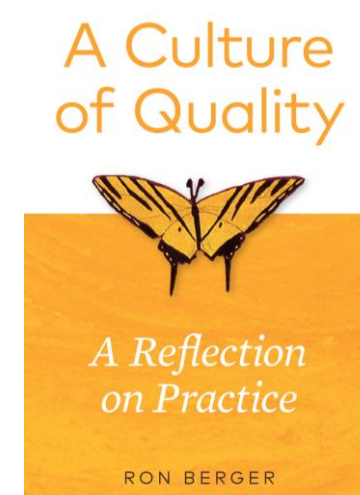

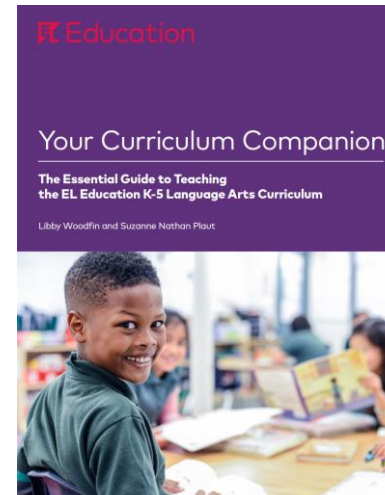

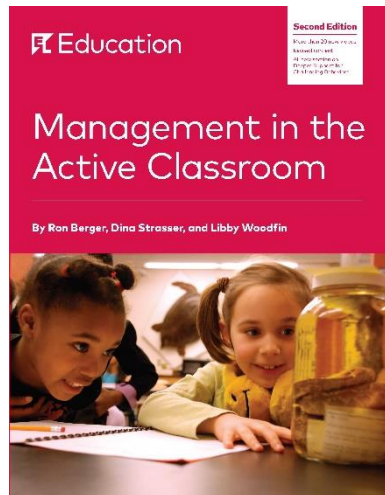

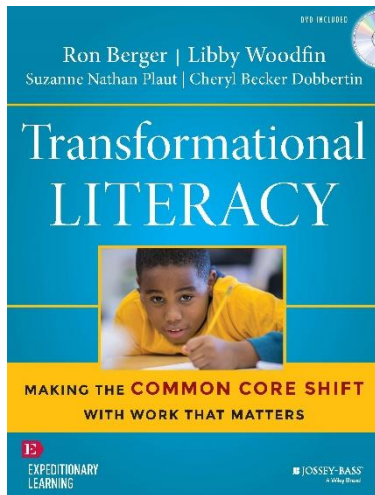

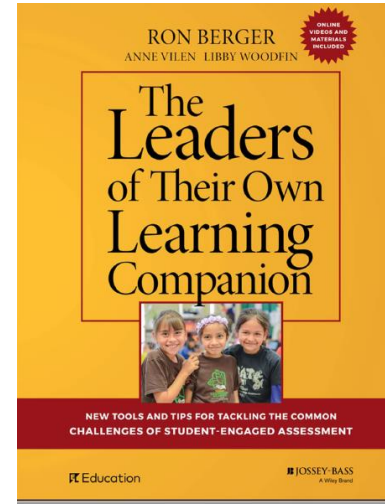

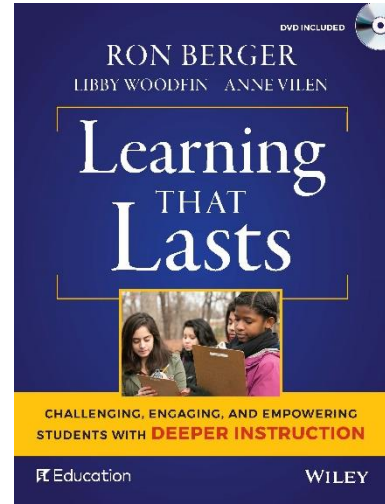

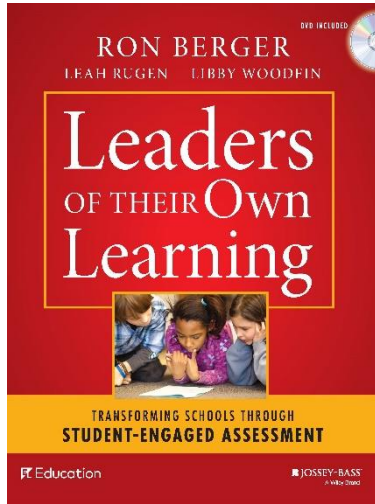

The quality of her character

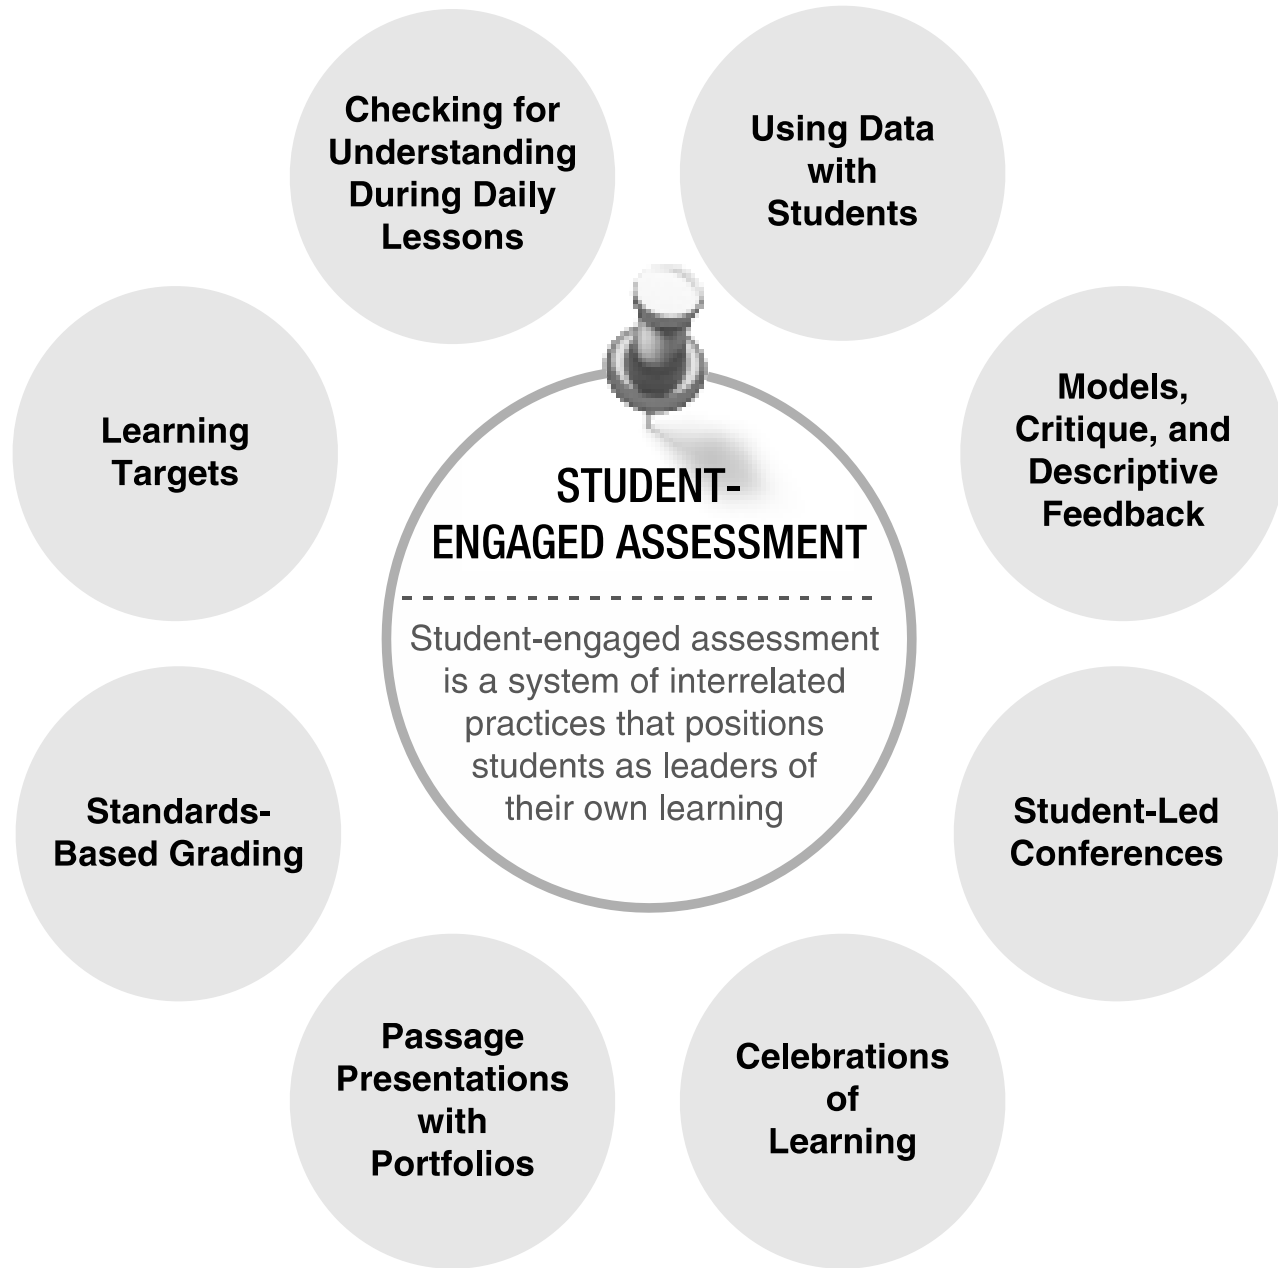

The quality of her work

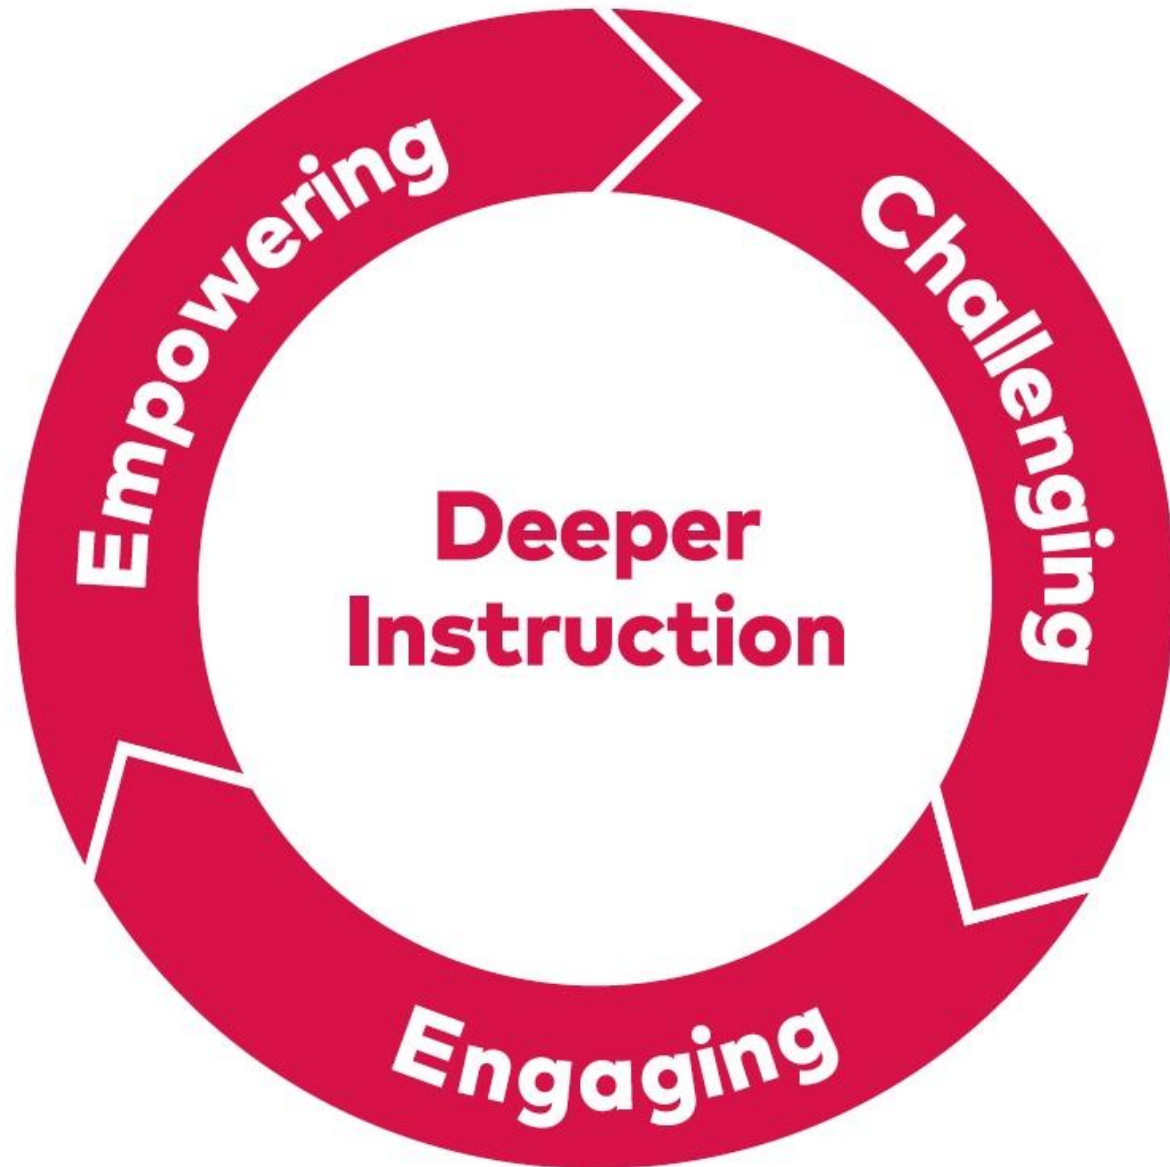

An Expanded View of Student Achievement

- Mastery of knowledge and skills
- Character
- High-quality student work

Deeper
Instruction
